UNICEF Drive Set For Oct. 31

Another opportunity for children to share their Halloween fun with the underprivileged children of the world is approaching. Each church in Agawam will again sponsor groups who will "Trick or Treat" for UNICEF throughout the town. Children will be identified by the use of the official UNICEF symbol on their milk cartons and will be ringing doorbells on Sunday the 31st, Halloween. Feeding Hills residents may be visited earlier on Saturday by a group who has requested special permission to go out at this time.

May no child be turned away who asks your assistance in their effort to help the million of sick and hungry children throughout the world. 90% of all funds collected goes directly for aid in saving the lives of these children in over 100 countries.

Brochures and further information on our local program may be obtained from Agawam Chairman, Mrs. Lawrence Mutti, 9 Pasadean St., or Mrs. Charles Deliso, 943 River Rd. Any individual child or group of neighborhood children, accompanied by an adult, may Trick or Treat for UNICEF simply by having a parent sign and pick up cartons. Supply of cartons and collection point, after solicitation on Sunday, will be the Lilliput Play-School at 943 River Rd. (near corner of School St.)

Measles Clinic Sundays, Oct. 24-31

The Agawam Council Parent of Teacher Associations and the Agawam Health Department released the following information today: The Measles Clinic for children from age one (1) through seven (7) will be held at the Agawam Junior High School, Main St. on two successive Sundays of Oct., the 24th and 31st from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m.

The Health Department stated that an epidemic of some 420 recognized cases of measles is expected this winter and spring unless the citizens of Agawam take advantage of this program. It is hoped that 500 pre-school and school children will receive the measles shot and eliminate this disease from the population.

It is a little known fact that more children die from measles than from any other childhood disease including polio. In fact 500 children will die this year because of measles. In Agawam alone, 70 children will suffer some type of secondary complication, which may include croup, bronchitis, pneumonia, myocarditis, encephalitis, or even death. Don't take the chance.

Make sure your children are protected. For further information call your own doctor or the Agawam Health Department.

Junior Grange Meeting Saturday

Community Junior Grange #105 will hold its regular meeting on Saturday, Oct. 23 at 2 o'clock. Douglas Favreau, master, will conduct the business meeting, and Richard Allen, lecturer, is in charge of the program which will feature Halloween. Costumes may be worn. Cathrine Ainsworth and Beth Werner are hostesses. Applications for new members should be presented as the degree will be worked Nov. 20.

All entries in the State and National Grange Contests should be brought to this meeting, such as: posters, onions, straw flowers, lawn markers, and shifts. Junior Grange hopes to make a good showing at the State Session in Springfield Oct. 26-28.

Married Men To Be Drafted

If the calls placed on Selective Service for men for the armed forces remain at their present level, it appears it will be necessary to order for induction registrants who were married before Aug. 27, 1965, John C. Carr, Jr., Massachusetts Selective Service director, stated today.

Under an Executive Order issued by President Kennedy in September of 1963 married men were placed in a lower order of selection and were not inducted. However, "lower order of selection" did not mean deferment. Merely, they would not be selected until after the supply of single registrants became exhausted. President Johnson later decreed that men married after Aug. 26, 1965 were not qualified for the lower order of selection. With a dwindling supply of eligible men, it is now evident Selective Service will probably have to draft some married men early in 1966.

In anticipation of such need, Mr. Carr announced that married men born after Jan. 1, 1940, not deferred or exempt, will be ordered for preinduction physical examination starting in November.

Dr. Edward Maloof, leading authority on the dental benefits of eating apples, points out that cleaning the teeth is only one "extra" provided by our flavorful Bay State McIntosh. Says Dr. Maloof: "The juice of the apple has a buffering action on the teeth, neutralizing acids resent from other foods that contribute to cavities. So apple-eaters should have fewer cavities than non-apple eaters." He also says that apple-eating stimulates the gums and helps keep them healthy.

YOU AND YOUR INSURANCE

(A public service column about property and casualty insurance)
by KENNETH S. RAFFOL

Burglary Insurance Rates Defy Inflationary Trend

Do you think your home is burglar-proof? Don't you believe it.

According to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, burglars break into a building somewhere in the United States every 32 seconds.

Roughly half of all burglaries involve private residences, and you may be surprised to learn that about half of them take place during daylight hour.

If you're an average property-owner, you most likely have some form of insurance which protects you against financial loss because of theft. But, you probably aren't aware that generally theft insurance costs less today than it did 30 years ago, despite the pressures of rising costs and increasing crime rates.

The premium you pay for burglary coverage is based on what it costs the insurance company to provide such protection in the region where you live. If you live in a rural area you enjoy the lowest premium level because crime rates—and insured losses—are only about one-third of the rate in large metropolitan areas, and twice that of non-metropolitan cities.

Wherever you live, you can help hold down insurance costs and avoid the loss of your own possessions by following a few common-sense rules:

—If you live in a residential area, let the police know when you are going away on vacation and when you will be back.

—Make arrangements with a neighbor to take in all deliveries made to your house—avoid tipping off burglars that you're away.

—Don't pull down all window shades and do leave a light on so the house will look occupied.

—See that your doors and windows are securely locked; if possible, use deadbolt-type locks on all doors instead of the slip-bolt variety.

—Don't leave high-value possessions like jewels and furs in an unoccupied house.

This column will be glad to answer questions you may have about property or casualty insurance. Send them to The Agawam Independent, marked to the attention of Kenneth S. Raffol.

Of the more than twenty cities in the United States which bear the name Lincoln, the one in Illinois alone took the name during his lifetime, at a time when he knew no fame.

"FLOWER-FRESH"

Easy Care of Windows,
Mirrors and Glass

Is it on the inside or the outside? When you dry windows, rub them on the inside with a sideways motion; on the outside with an up and down motion. If any streaks show up, you'll know in a wink if they're on the inside or the outside.

FOIL JACK FROST on cold days. Rub alcohol or salt water on the outside of your windows, then polish them with newspaper. Keeps windows clear.

NEAT TRICK while washing windows or walls — tie your sponge to your wrist with a string — no more getting down off the ladder to retrieve it. Keeps your hand free for drying too.

WHEN ONE GLASS STICKS to another, don't force them apart. Merely fill the top glass with cold water, dip the lower one in hot water—then it's easy.

IF A PRECIOUS GLASS becomes nicked, don't throw it away — sand the nick down with size "OO" emery paper wrapped around a spoon.

IN WASHING DELICATE GLASSWARE, remember that sometimes it cracks when you put it into hot water bottom first. Slip it in sideways, slowly, to be on the safe side.

USE SOFT, lintless cloths on mirrors and windows, never ones which could possibly scratch them! Try crumpled tissue paper or newspaper if you've run out of cloths.

WASH WINDOWS with warm water and 1/2-cup white vinegar. Or try this: mix 2 tablespoons ammonia with 2 quarts of warm water.

WHEN YOU HANG MIRRORS, glue small pieces of thin cork to the lower corners on the back. This prevents those "soiled squares" on the wall behind them which are so frustrating if you decide later to make any changes.

At Your Service

DAVID C. GALLANO
Director of Veterans Services

Children of both living and deceased veterans studying under the Orphans Education Assistance Act will receive in November the new educational allowance rates signed into law by President Johnson, William J. Driver, Administrator of Veterans Affairs, said today.

At the same time, Driver pointed out that the new law removes a restrictive provision for eligibility under the Orphans Education Assistance program. The provision had previously required that the qualifying death or disability result from the "performance of duty." The new law strikes out the "performance of duty" provision.

Driver explained that this change in the law now re-opened eligibility for those children who applications had been denied because they did not meet this provision. He urged that they or their parents or guardians file another application as they may become eligible under the new law.

He estimated that more than a hundred children throughout Massachusetts may now have become eligible because of this change.

The increase in monthly education assistance allowance rates which go from $110 to $130 a month for full-time study will affect between 700 and 800 Massachusetts students in the current school year. During the last school year, more than 900 children were studying under the Orphans Education Assistance program in Massachusetts.

Almost 2500 children in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts have taken advantage of the orphans' study program to date, Driver said.

Increased rates for part time study will also go into effect in November. Half-time study rates will go from $50 to $60 a month while three-quarter time study rates will increase from $80 to $95 a month.

Rates for restorative training for eligible children who have to correct mental or physical disabilities before they can begin regular courses of study will also be increased, Driver said.

While those who were previously denied eligibility must file new claims, no filing is necessary to obtain the increased allowance rates. These payments are automatic and require no correspondence with the VA.

Use New Foam to Revive Old Chair

Here's how to revive saggy looking upholstered chairs, using slip covers and urethane foam. First, measure worn out seat cushion, then choose replacement by size. Long-lasting, resilient urethane cushions are available in Cone Foam, for instance, 4 inches thick, 22 by 22 inches square, or 22 by 36 inches. For T-cushions, place the old cushion atop foam, trace outline with ball point pen. Make new cushion slightly larger for tight fit by cutting outside outline, using knife with serrated blade. Foam will not crumble, is odorless, dustless. New slip covers add finishing touch. Women who sew can make their own, using bright new prints with "Zepele" fabric fluoridizer, a stain repellent finish that keeps fabric looking fresh longer.

Advice for Hunters

Massachusetts hunters will be taking to the field in large numbers next week, and the Massachusetts Heart Association today urged caution upon any who may have heart conditions.

Hunting and heart attacks need not go together, your Heart Association points out and the man with heart disease, if he respects his limitations, may have a better chance of enjoying his trip without incident than many others.

Hunting has its stresses. Trudging through marshes or bramble bushes, climbing hills, handling animal carcasses, cold weather and altitude all can impose a greater strain than usual on the heart.

Whether or not your heart can take the rigors of hunting is a matter for your physician to decide and, if you have a heart condition, your Heart Association urges you to have a complete physical examination before the decision is made.

Then, if you follow your doctor's advice to the letter, you will enjoy hunting for years to come.

Between hunting seasons, many men rarely exercise, yet when the season arrives, they are determined to keep up with younger, better conditioned men—a course which your Heart Association advises you to avoid.

The following suggestions are offered to take some of the hazards out of hunting:

When you have your physical examination, be able to tell your physician about the geography and climate of the area where you plan to go. Very high altitudes, low temperatures and rough terrain all mean work for your heart.

Get into condition. Hunting is an active sport, and one should train for it. Start with moderate exercises for a half-hour daily and then step it up gradually.

On the trip itself, remove the burden from your heart in every possible way. Choose warm but lightweight clothing and save yourself the necessity of carrying 10 or more pounds of extra weight.

If the hunting area is higher than you are accustomed to, go a few days early to let your body adjust to the height before you add the activity of hunting.

Whenever you begin to feel tired, be sure to rest as long and often as necessary.

Never try to drag in a heavy carcass. If you have a heart condition, this is a job for others.

Never hunt alone. Tell at least one companion about any medication you may be taking, where you carry it, and whatever else he should know in an emergency. Have medication instructions clearly typed or printed on the container.

Happy hunting!

New Jet-Age Game

For all the thrills and realism of a jet race around the world, here's a new family game called "Whirling Derby." Players use miniature magnetic jet planes to race each other around a real 8-inch world globe; develop strategy as they learn to fly great circle routes to shorten distances, save flying time. First player to fly completely around the world and come back to his starting point is the winner.

Designed for 2 to 4 players, "Whirling Derby" includes fuel tokens, play money, good and bad luck chance cards, a device to measure distances and flight time. Course of flight must be determined by illustrated flight plan country cards dealt to each player. It's the globe that whirled as players spin it, read the revolving pointer on the base to win flying time, extra fuel, good and bad luck chances. A variety of situations occurs, new challenges arise with each succeeding game. Equipment fails, flyers are beset by headwinds or bad flying weather, aided by tailwinds. They may hold the winning ticket in a lottery, earn money by taking on passengers, encounter travel restrictions.

Youngsters and grownups alike can share in the fun and excitement of this unique jet-age game, get a basic knowledge of our world from the colorful, greatly detailed globe. "Whirling Derby" sells for around $5.00 in toy departments and toy shops. Or write: Replogle Globes, Inc., 1901 N. Narragansett Ave., Chicago, Illinois 60639.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar J. Clifford, Jr., of Albert St., Agawam, and a senior at Agawam High School, has been accepted for admission to West Virginia Wesleyan College. He plans to make history his major study and teaching history his career.

Clifford is a member of the A.V.A. and Art Clubs, the Mirror staff and manager of the baseball team. He received a certificate in recognition of his work on the National Education Development Test.

He is president of the Pilgrim Fellowship of the Agawam Congregational Church, a member of the choir, usher and a participant in conference camps.

An Open Letter to the Greater Springfield Community

Today our United Fund - Red Cross drive reported progress. Progress however, is relative to both the goal to be reached and the time allotted to the task. Though we report progress today, in light of the need for victory and the time remaining, we cannot be encouraged beyond the simple knowledge that we can succeed.

Here and now this volunteer campaign organization must commit itself unconditionally to meeting the needs of our Community. To those who live in worlds of silence and pain . . . our own innocent who have felt the hurt of man's inhumanity to man . . . to all these and more, we pledge the help we have within our means to give.

In this effort the campaign organization does not labor alone. We need, and surely we have, a powerful ally . . . the understanding and the unselfish generosity of the people of this Greater Springfield Community . . . our home.

So to those not yet called upon by the Red Feather Solicitor, I say . . . JOIN UP. Become a part of a tidal wave of compassion that will sweep us forward . . . a wave of help to the handicapped child . . . help for the troubled family . . . help that provides wholesome recreation for our youth . . . companionship and interests for the senior members of our home . . . help and hope for the sick and mentally ill.

JOIN UP. Do not be hard to locate. Rather, make yourself known. Neither measure your gift by what has been given before, nor by the "Token Gift" measure. Rather, measure the values here involved . . . the needs of your Community . . . Your own blessed fortune . . . Then give fully . . . Give from your heart . . . Give Fair Share.

Having considered all our problems most carefully, in the end we come always to the conclusion that we can succeed . . . have not the right to do or think otherwise. However, victory comes only to those who strive hard and who move forthrightly . . . and in time.

Let us all . . . volunteer solicitor and citizen contributor . . . join now and fight together. And if defeated, let us go down fighting, rather than crawling on our hands and knees through the humiliation of excuses and inner shame.

Fair Share is our standard. Let those who carry that standard be carried with it by our fellow citizens . . . to victory.

SPORTSMEN'S CORNER

By Bill Chiba

Gene Hall, Garden Street, Feeding Hills, my deer hunting partner and I arrived at Moe Eaton's farm, West Fairlee, Vt., around 11 Friday night, Oct. 8. The place was a bedlam of activity...Margret (Moe's ever-loving wife) was busy making preparations to feed the ever increasing number of bowhunters that were arriving from Connecticut and Massachusetts. Lunches were being assembled for the morrow...Margret knows how the appetite increases after tramping through the woods for 4 or 5 hours. Agawam hunters arriving in a steady stream were: Dave Blackburn and his son, Steve, Noel Brown, Ted Cesan, Ruppert Kane, Doc Baldwin. Many from the surrounding towns were checking in. Bernie Guennette, Detective on the West Springfield police force; Fran Slizinski, George Bussier and his son, from Westfield, Joe Fuzjak, Holyoke, Tom Wutherell, Conn., and Ralph Davis, formerly of Feeding Hills now of Springfield.

Tom Wutherell was the first bow bender to bring down a deer. His prize was a small doe. Deer were seen by every bowhunter (Moe's Farm is located in Orange County, one of the heaviest deer populated counties in the state) and many arrows were loosed at the elusive creatures. I saw deer all week, but just could not get a clear shot at the shoulder of the animals.

Gene Connects

It rained practically every day last week, which made it ideal for still hunting. Thursday, I walked up on 9 deer to within 30 to 40 feet, but as luck would have it, the wily "ghost of the woods" would break away from me at a great burst of speed and always be on the far side of a blow down or topping from a cut tree, affording very little opportunity for a running shot.

However, my partner was having better luck. He hit a very large doe on the edge of Moe's mowing. He returned to the trailer and the both of us took off after the deer. We followed a very good blood sign up the side of the mountain and over the top to the Bloody Brook area. We knew that we were getting close to the animal, for the sign she was leaving indicated that she was weakening and staggering. Then the nemesis of all bowhunters struck without warning. Rain!! Oh! how it did pour. The blood sign disappeared. Yes, two dejected bowhunters continued to search for the deer with sinking hearts. It proved hopeless, and Gene's prize deer faded away.

Patience Pays Off

All week, as I said before, adverse conditions and somebody's hex was working overtime against me. I just could not do the right thing at the right time as far as nailing a deer was concerned.

Sunday morning broke cold (20 degrees) and clear. Ralph Davis, who bagged his deer, a spike horn buck, Friday the 15th after arriving at the farm just as the storm was breaking...The rain ended at 12 noon, and Ralph bagged his deer at 2 o'clock, offered to chauffeur me over to a section known as Bear Knotch. He was going to hunt partridge till 11 and then return to the farm and prepare for the journey home. I had made similar arrangements with Gene, only I was going to hunt for deer instead of birds.

I still hunted up to an orchard on the side of the mountain. As I cautiously placed my feet down on the crisp leaves and grass, I heard a deer depart the area ahead of me. I quickly drew the conclusion that I wouldn't be able to walk up on deer this morning because of the noisy conditions under foot. However, I continued to proceed as quietly as possible. To my surprise, as I raised my head over a pine tree branch, I spied a deer feeding on apples under the tree ahead. It was the fawn. The larger of two deer walked broadside to me making a perfect target. I drew back the arrow and hit the unsuspecting deer back of the shoulder. She field dressed at 114 pounds on Moe's scales. This makes number 11 with the bow. My legs trembled just as violently after I hit this deer as they did on downing number one.

West Fairlee's Town Clerk had checked out nine deer during the week before I arrived with mine. This is an amazing record for such a small area of deer country. While looking over the list of successful hunters, I came across Jim MacNamara's name. He had bagged a button buck weighing 65 pounds. Jim is a member of the Agawam Bowmen. Vermont is abounding with deer this year. The buck season opening the 13th of November should produce a record kill. Mild winters have not taken the toll of deer that ordinarily fall prey to mother nature during a vio-

KEEP MOVING

The old paraphrased idea that "fish are where you find 'em'" has been worked to death. Most folks agree with the adage; many promptly ignore it once they get in a boat. When you see a guy flailing the same area for a long period without any encouragement, by the fish, you're witnessing neglect-angling's basic tenant.

Instead of waiting for fish to come to you, go looking for them, urges the fishing department at Mercury outboards. Fish are not evenly distributed throughout a lake or river, they note, and time spent looking pays off better than just a-sittin'.

While trolling is usually the best all-around fish-finder, other techniques may be equally good... depending on season, waters and species.

If you're a casting man, work the points for bass during the day, hopping to the next one down the shoreline when the first fails to produce after being explored. At night, work these same points again, but also probe back into the coves.

For white bass, alias sandies or barfish, crank up the outboard and literally go looking. Cruise along at a good clip until you find a school creating mayhem with shad on the surface. Cut the motor and cast right into the middle of the activity.

Dry fly fishermen look for surface boils; muskie addicts look for weeds; crappie fans troll deep to discover hidden brush. Even on the vastness of the ocean, costal charter skippers keep their eyes "peeled" for circling gulls working over a school of bait — game fish are nearby.

Keep moving, repeat the Mercury folks. Keep your attention glued for the telltale signs that indicate likely fish hangouts. Then fish.

Lookin's the key to much fishin'.

Science is a fascinating hobby today for many boys and girls.

Now that the moon is sitting for its picture, men are somersaulting in space, and rockets orbit the earth, science is part of everyday life and headlines. Youngsters from 5 to 15 are equipping themselves for a new life, and are eager to learn.

"At the counters of many stores parents will find a series of low-cost learn-about books covering many science subjects," points out James Lyle, president of Whitman Publishing Company of Racine, Wisconsin. The books have been prepared under the guidance of teachers and science writers to answer children's questions about the universe.

A child learns safe and simple experiments that can be done at home — with balloons, rocks, mirrors. In an "All About Science" book, for example, a beginner gets a working knowledge of sound and light waves. A boy can strike two rocks underwater — in the bathtub or at the beach — to see if sound travels through liquid. (It does.) He can put a pocket mirror in a partly filled water glass, reproduce a rainbow on the wall of his room, and study the spectrum. He can blow up balloons and "weigh" them on a balanced stick to see if air has weight. (It has.)

In a "Find Out" book, youngsters learn the principles of atoms and molecules from Dr. Daniel Q. Posin. A schoolboy can study simple diagrams of circuits to see how "thinking machines" work. After that it is easy to understand how a machine can be wired to play Tick Tack Toe, or to store "memories."

A learn-about book on Astronomy tells a youngster about tornadoes on the sun, craters on the moon, and exploding stars. A book on the Microscope teaches a child about the infinite forms of life too small to be seen, and explains how a magnifying glass is used by scientists and doctors and detectives.

Many a youngster finds these books more exciting than fiction.

Many an adult finds that by reading them he can keep up with the youngsters — and that's a worthwhile goal in any home.

Becoming wiser today is painful. It makes a person realize what a fool he was yesterday.

PROMENADERS

By Beryl and Doug Shaylor

Friday evening, Oct. 22, the Agawam Promenader Club will celebrate their 10th Anniversary with a square dance party at the Robinson Park School. This Birthday Celebration will be the largest event of the Club year. In addition to the regular fun filled night of dancing to the calling of "Old Smoothie," Dick Steele, the party will feature special refreshments, special door prizes, a fabulous fashion show and a number of other surprise events.

This Birthday Celebration promises to be one of the major square dancing events of the season in Western Massachusetts. All area western dancers are cordially invited to attend.

The Club is particularly anxious to renew acquaintances with all former members. It is hoped that many will plan on attending.

The next regular Club dance will be Friday, Nov. 12, at the Robinson Park School. Guest caller will be Eddie Vieira of New Bedford, Mass. This is an opportunity for area dancers to add another top-notch caller's name to their Century Books.

The word penny is believed to derive from Penda, a ruler of the 7th-century Anglican kingdom of Mercia.
